

THE IMPOSSIBLE

*To dream, the impossible dream
To swim, the impossible race
To try, when my arms are too weary
To keep, the impossible pace
To dream, the impossible dream
To be, better by far than you are To strive, with my last ounce of courage,
To reach, the unreachable star*

This is my quest... to follow my star
No matter how difficult... no matter how far

To swim with all my might, without question or rest

I stand here willing to do whatever it takes to be my very best

And I know, if I'll only be true to this glorious quest

That my heart will lie peaceful and still when I'm laid to my rest

And our team will be better for this

That just one swimmer, tired and covered with doubt

Still swam with their last ounce of energy

To show us what life's really about
